Concern About F-35 Weapons Parts Manufacturing in Tingalpa

Local residents are becoming increasingly concerned about the manufacture of components for F-35 warplanes taking place in our community.

At the Tingalpa facility of Ferra Engineering, precision components — including wing kits used in bombs — are produced for the international F-35 program.

These parts form part of a global supply chain supporting military aircraft currently being used in armed conflict in Palestine, Lebanon and Iran.

WHY RESIDENTS ARE CONCERNED

Since October 2023, allegations of serious violations of international humanitarian law in Gaza have been widely documented and debated internationally.

Civilian deaths — including those of children — have caused widespread alarm and grief across the world.

Despite political declarations of a ceasefire, reports continue to describe ongoing violence affecting Palestinians in Gaza and the West Bank.

PUBLIC FUNDING & TRANSPARENCY

Both State and Federal governments have provided financial support to Ferra Engineering, including Queensland Government funding and payroll tax concessions.

This raises questions about public funding and the transparency of military supply chains operating in our community.

Residents believe communities should be informed when military manufacturing is occurring locally — especially when public money is involved.

QUESTIONS RESIDENTS ARE ASKING

- What oversight exists regarding the end use of components made here?
- What steps are governments taking to ensure companies are not contributing to violations of international humanitarian law?
- What accountability mechanisms govern public funding to Ferra Engineering?
- Why has the local community not been properly informed about weapons manufacturing in Tingalpa?
